We understand that Mark Twain (S. L. Clemens) and George W. Cable will give an entertainment in University hall, Friday evening, Dec. 12. The entertainment is to consist of rendering selections, each from his own works. It is nearly ten years since Twain left the platform as a lecturer, and his reappearance, even for the present year only, will be gladly welcomed by his many admirers. His genius for story telling is as good as ever and is universally admired. Mr. Cable is well known as an author and reader. The N. Y. Sun says of him: "His elocution is entirely new; it is unlike anything ever before heard from a readers desk, but the matter, the manner and the man are wholly homogeneous, and wholly effective and entertaining."

The board will be open for reserved seats Wednesday morning, December 10, at the usual places where seats are reserved for entertainments furnished by the Students' Lecture Association.
